

EVENT BROCHURE

Strategic Human Resources Management in Government

Upcoming Training Event

Muscat, Oman · 19 September 2026

Skillslab Training Provider

Skills for Tomorrow's World

Course Description

Course Overview

Strategic Human Resources Management in Government is a comprehensive, knowledge-based training program designed to equip public sector professionals with a strategic understanding of modern human resources management within government institutions. The course focuses on aligning HR policies, workforce planning, and talent management practices with national strategies, public service values, and institutional performance objectives. It addresses the evolving role of HR as a strategic partner rather than a purely administrative function.

This program is especially valuable for new managers, supervisors, and emerging leaders in government entities who are expected to manage people, implement HR-related decisions, and contribute to organizational effectiveness. As leadership training for new managers becomes increasingly critical in the public sector, this course provides structured insights into governance, compliance, workforce development, and performance-driven HR practices that support sustainable public service delivery.

Key Outcomes

- By the end of this program, participants will be able to explain the strategic role of human resources management in government organizations.
- By the end of this program, participants will be able to link HR strategies with governmental vision, mission, and policy objectives.
- By the end of this program, participants will be able to identify core HR governance principles applicable to public sector institutions.
- By the end of this program, participants will be able to analyze workforce planning needs based on organizational priorities and demographic trends.
- By the end of this program, participants will be able to recognize effective talent management and succession planning approaches in government settings.

- By the end of this program, participants will be able to evaluate performance management systems used in public sector environments.
- By the end of this program, participants will be able to apply basic employee engagement and motivation concepts within public organizations.
- By the end of this program, participants will be able to understand the role of HR in change management and organizational transformation.
- By the end of this program, participants will be able to support ethical decision-making and compliance through HR policies and procedures.

Who Should Attend

- First-time managers in government entities
- Supervisors and section heads in public sector organizations
- Team leaders and unit coordinators
- High-potential employees preparing for leadership roles
- HR officers and HR business partners in government institutions
- Administrative managers involved in people management decisions
- Policy professionals with HR-related responsibilities
- Public sector professionals seeking management skills training

Prerequisites: No prerequisites. This course is suitable for participants with limited or no formal HR background.

Course Outline by Modules

Day 1: Strategic Role of Human Resources in Government

- Evolution of HR management in the public sector
- HR as a strategic partner in government organizations
- Alignment of HR strategy with national and institutional goals
- Public sector values, ethics, and governance frameworks
- Overview of leadership responsibilities for new managers

Day 2: Workforce Planning and Organizational Capability

- Strategic workforce planning concepts in government
- Workforce analysis, forecasting, and skills gap identification
- Managing demographic change and workforce sustainability
- Capacity building and competency frameworks
- Role of managers in supporting workforce planning initiatives

Day 3: Talent Management and Leadership Development

- Talent identification and development in public institutions
- Succession planning for critical government roles
- Leadership development for team leaders and supervisors
- Learning and development strategies in government settings
- Supporting first-time manager training through HR systems

Day 4: Performance Management and Employee Engagement

- Performance management systems in the public sector
- Linking individual performance to organizational outcomes
- Performance appraisal principles and common challenges
- Employee engagement and motivation in government environments
- Managing performance discussions as a supervisor or manager

Day 5: HR Governance, Change, and Risk Management

- HR policies, compliance, and regulatory requirements
- Managing organizational change in government entities
- Role of HR in restructuring and reform initiatives
- Managing people-related risks and ethical considerations
- HR's contribution to institutional resilience and continuity

Methodology

The course is delivered using a structured, primarily theoretical approach suitable for government and corporate audiences. Participants are introduced to established HR management concepts, public sector frameworks, and leadership principles through clear explanations and guided discussions. The program emphasizes leadership fundamentals for supervisors and new managers, ensuring concepts are practical yet knowledge-focused. Interaction is balanced between individual reflection and group discussions, allowing participants to share experiences without engaging in complex workshops. Training materials include summary sheets, a participant workbook, and simple reference templates that can be easily reviewed or applied on a computer. Optional pre-reading or follow-up support may be provided upon request, depending on client needs.

Assessment & ROI

Assessment during the course is conducted through light, in-session methods such as short quizzes, guided question-and-answer sessions, and recap discussions led by the instructor. These methods help reinforce understanding and ensure learning objectives are met without formal examinations.

Organizations may choose to measure return on investment internally through performance indicators such as KPIs, manager evaluations, or post-training performance reviews. Internal measurement is managed by the client organization and is outside the scope of our delivery. Optional follow-up support or clarification sessions are available upon request to support learning transfer.

Instructor Profile

Instructor assignment depends on the delivery date and city. We work with a global pool of trainers. Please contact us to confirm the most suitable available instructor for this course based on schedule and location.

Conclusion

Strategic Human Resources Management in Government provides a strong foundation for public sector professionals seeking a practical yet strategic understanding of people management. As a leadership fundamentals course and a valuable addition to any new manager leadership course pathway, it supports leadership development for team leaders and supervisors while strengthening institutional HR capability. Organizations are invited to contact us to tailor delivery options, including onsite, online, or blended formats, and to align the program duration with their operational needs. Participants receive a certificate of completion upon successful attendance, reinforcing the value of this first-time manager training experience.

Contact Us

To secure your place or request further information about this event, please contact us:

Website

www.skillslab-training.com

Email

info@skillslab-training.com

WhatsApp

+966 559 653 447

Generated by Skillslab Training

info@skillslab-training.com | WhatsApp: +966 559 653 447

www.skillslab-training.com